SOUTH HIGH
National studies have shown that VD is increasing at an alarming rate among teenagers. For example, the infection rate in the 15-19 age group was 10.1 per 100,000 population in 1956 and jumped to 19.4 in 1960.

The urgency of the venereal disease problem is current and pressing. Parents, teachers, youth leaders, and the public, now see the wisdom of enlightening young people on this subject.
